“ Even though we have not seen one another since school I still call you by friend. My heart will hurt for you but I know you are a very strong woman and WE will get through this. God has put you Taka on my heart. Some things are hard to understand stand why the Lord will put us through these devastating times. He is our stronghold. If the Lord brought you to this,sister he will bring you through this some how,some way. Cherish the times you had with your son and lean on your other two precious children. I am only a phone call away so please do not hesitate. From one mother to another,we are stronger than we know and between the Lord and family and friends,we will get through this. Love you sister
